Despatches to the Evening Times

From Europe--The Russian Peasantry Congratulating the United States--Russia Ready to unfurl her Banner Beside that of the Republic.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 31.

Thirteen new case of cholera and twenty-eight deaths are reported to-day.

[By Cable to Associated Press.]

London, Aug. 30. The exchange of ratifications of the Austro-Prussian treaty took place to-day at Prague.

A deputation of Russian peasants called on Mr. Fox, and extended to him congratulations in the name of the whole peasantry of Russia. Mr. Fox presented them with a United States flag, and Mr. Gruden, on receiving it said that in case of necessity, Russia would unfurl her banner by the side of that of the great Republic.

The cholera is spreading in Russia.

London, Aug. 31. The 13th Hussars and the 23d and 61st foot are ordered to Canada at once, and if it is possible more troops will be ordered there.

The steamer Rhone, from Rio Janeiro 8th, reports that a new ministry is formed in Brazil, which is for a vigorous prosecution of the war.

The Argentines repulsed the Paraguayans, July 11th, with severe loss.

The U. S. steamer Leipsic, at Bahia, saluted the flag of Brazil, July 28, as an apology for the seizure of the privateer Florida in that port.

Berlin, Aug. 31. It is rumored that the Elector of Hesse will abdicate.

THE MOUNTAIN RAILROAD. We have elsewhere mentioned the fact that Mount Washington has been ascended by a railroad car, on a grade of 1700 feet to the mile! We take the following description of the engine from the correspondence of the Boston Advertiser.

In studying up an engine to ascend the mountain, reference was had to comfort and absolute safety rather than to speed. At first sight the engine looks very much like a pile driving machine. The boiler is upright and is suspended on trunnions, so as to hang level whatever the grade of the road may be. The engine car weighs four tons, and is of thirty-five horse power. The intention is to run but about three miles an hour; but doubts that speed can be accomplished. The driving wheel is an 18-inch cog wheel of gun iron, with a 4-inch pitch, playing into a cogged rail or ratchet fastened to longitudinal sills in the centre of the track. To secure the engine car and passenger car from any possible chance of bounding off the track the cogged rails are placed to overhang the sill to which they are bolted one inch on each side, and under this overhang run friction rollers suspended by an iron strap to the car above; this will prevent any bounding up or off the track.

The side rails, as laid, are ordinary strap rails on which the entire weight of the car rests; they are bolted to longitudinal sills and cross-ties. The cogged rail, which with the corresponding cog driving wheel of the engine, is the main and indispensable feature of the railway, is made of wrought angle iron; in these rails holes are punched at 4-inch distances from centre to centre, to receive iron pins one inch and a half in diameter. A double track, four inches apart, of this angle iron rail is bolted to the sill, with the flange on either side and the pins forming the cog holding them together.—Into this cogged rail the cog driving wheel of the engine meshes. The engine has thus a powerful and irresistible grasp upon the track, and lifts its burden with ease and safety. Not to rely, however, exclusively upon the engine against a too rapid descent, atmospheric breaks are placed on either side of the passenger car, which is on the upper or hill side of the engine; there is also an ordinary friction-break acting on the side wheels and through them by means of the axletrees upon the centre cog-wheel; so absolute is the control of this break upon the car that it is sufficient alone to bring the car to a stand still upon the steepest grade.

A pawl or dog is also provided to play upon the top of a large cog-wheel in the rear of the engine car, which meshes into the cogged rail, and is connected with the side wheels by an axletree; this pawl, when it is dropped upon the wheel, instantly arrests a downward motion of the car. The engine has driven up a load of five tons; it has taken up fifty persons at a time; it can easily drive cars containing one hundred people.—The line will be two and seven-eighths miles long; one-fourth of a mile is completed, and the working is so satisfactory as to leave not the slightest doubt of ultimate success. The first division of one mile and eight rods has been surveyed; in this distance the rise is 1242 and 42-100 feet. The steepest grade is one foot rise in three, and the shortest curve is 554 feet radius. The entire route to the summit has been examined and and found to be adapted to the enterprise.

WHAT A PARTY! The Mobile (Ala.) Nationalist gives the following resume of the composition of the Republican party of the country:

The personnel of the Republican party is remarkable. In the North it comprises within its ranks nineteen-twentieths of the members of all Protestant churches excepting the Episcopalians, and a large majority of that denomination; almost the entire membership of all moral and benevolent associations; four-fifths of all literati, professional men, teachers, &c.; three-fourths of the returned soldiers; a large proportion of the prominent business men,—especially miners, manufacturers and bankers,—and certainly a decided majority of the farming mechanical and working population. Ever since its formation this party has been growing with amazing rapidity, and its accessions have been principally from the above classes, which do not change easily, until now it controls every Northern State, including Missouri.

Letter from Hon. Theophilus Parsons.

CAMBRIDGE, Aug. 39.

To Messrs. J. M. S. Williams, William S. Robinson and Charles W. Slack—

Gentlemen—I find it impossible to go to Philadelphia, as you have requested; and I regret this, for I should be glad to testify, if only by going there on this errand, on which side I stand of the great question now before the country.

Our right to demand of the South guaranties against the recurrence of the great danger from which we have barely escaped, must be as perfect and as certain as was our right to pour forth life and treasure without stint to overcome that danger.

Our duty to do so is as perfect and as certain as our duty to give to our children what we hold at such a priceless cost; and our duty to the world, that the cause of free, just, republican government shall not be defeated and beaten down in a country where it has advantages which it can find nowhere else upon earth; for if it fall here, all the hope for an improvement in the condition of our race which rests upon it, must fall everywhere.

Whether these guaranties are needed depends on the character of the people of the South. I want no other evidence as to that character but Andrew Johnson; not quite, we may be thankful, the universal character of the South, as is proved by the presence of the Southern loyalists whom I am invited to meet, but the character that prevails and is dominant there. No man can imagine reasons stronger than those which address themselves to his understanding, or motives stronger than those which appeal to his heart, to think, to feel, to act, as the defender of the Union, of its freedom and of its justice. But we know what he has become, and how can we expect them of the South, to whom he now commends himself so heartily, to be any wiser or better than he is? A Southern democrat, placed in the second office of the government because of his hatred for treason and rebellion, and, when the death of Lincoln made him President, expressing this hatred as strongly as ever while the first influence of his high position filled him with a sense of its duties; if this man has broken down, and the reviving power of old associations has made him recreant to his own good purposes,—has made him tender towards the treason he once thought so "odious,"—has made him court the rebels, whom he threatened so hard and seemed to detest so thoroughly,—what must they be who are subjected to all the evil influences which have transformed him, with infinitely less protection against them?

I believe that he sincerely desires the preservation of the Union. But it is only on condition that it shall contain those elements of hostility and violence and injustice which brought the country to the verge of ruin, and contain them not only unfettered, but possessing far more than their share of political power, and exasperated by a new hatred born of defeat. The atrocities of Memphis and New Orleans are now startling the civilized world. They were perpetrated in a time of "peace," but even Andersonville, except for its magnitude, pales before them. What motives stronger than those presented by his oath, his office, and every thought and feeling of humanity, could command any human being to prevent, suppress and punish these outbreaks of brutality; but it is charitable to say only, that nothing of this kind has he done. While the manner in which these murders are spoken of in the organs of public opinion at the South, and by the men there who are now exulting in his "policy," shows only too plainly whither that policy tends, and what it will produce, if it be sanctioned by the people.

I am respectfully

Your obedient servant,

THEOPHILUS PARSONS.

ANOTHER SUPPRESSED DESPATCH. The New Orleans correspondent of the New York Tribune says the following was among the despatches sent to Gen. Grant by Gen. Sheridan, and which was not published with the others:

Hd.-Qrs. Mil. Div. of the Gulf,
August 18th, 1866.

To Gen. U. S. Grant, Washington, D. C.

The military board called by Gen. Baird to investigate the occurrences in this city of July 30th is progressing as rapidly as possible. I see in the papers, by reports of officials here, an attempt is made to cast blame upon the military for not being present on the 30th ult. There could have been no object in its being present, except to prevent the police from perpetrating a revolting massacre. Its absence, for this reason, I regret. From reports of my own scouts, who saw the affair from first to last from my own office, from disinterested and faithful persons, I believe that at least nine-tenths of the casualties were perpetrated by the police, the citizens stabbing and smashing in the heads of many who had already been wounded or killed by policemen.

P. H. SHERIDAN,
Maj.-Gen. Commanding.

WHY THE EMPRESS CARLOTTA WENT TO PARIS. A Paris correspondent of the Independence Belge says:—"Here is some very precise and exact information as to the causes of her Majesty's unexpected arrival in Europe. On the 16th of July the Emperor Maximilian, yielding to a moment of weakness, and allowing himself to be overcome by excessive discouragement, had resolutely commenced to draw up an act of abdication. The Empress Carlotta, whose rare energy is admired by every one, snatched the pen from his hand and tore up the act commenced. She then said to the Emperor, 'Well, there is a last attempt to be made and I will make it myself. Safety can only come from France. I will go to Paris and lay the situation before the Emperor, and ask him for the concessions which can save the Mexican empire.'"

THE GREAT CULVER FAILURE. A correspondent of The Tribune at Reno, Penn., says that the creditors of Culver, Penn & Co., and C. V. Culver met at Franklin, and arranged for the transfer of the Reno property and the railroad to pithole to creditors in New York who are heavy capitalists.—The road will be rapidly pushed to completion, and prompt measures adopted to develop the oil territory here. There is now a strong current of public sympathy in favor of Mr. C. V. Culver. The exhibit of the assets and liabilities prove that the firm have merely been unfortunate, and that they have been strictly honorable in all their business transactions.

What General Chamberlain Says.

"All must unite in demanding security for the future. We must have guaranties good and sufficient, against any future attempt to destroy this Government whether in the exercise of a pretended right by open war or BY MORE ARTFUL AND INSIDIOUS ASSAULTS against the principles on which this Nation was founded. These are points we cannot yield without danger and dishonor; and WHEN THE SOUTHERN STATES SHALL HAVE COMPLIED WITH THOSE CONDITIONS IN GOOD FAITH, they will be in a condition to ask association and fellowship with the loyal commonwealths of the country which they deserted with such violence and scorn. UNTIL THAT TIME, in my judgment, it is wise to hold them in strict probation. * * * * *

An Invitation to Hon. Hannibal Hamlin.

It will be seen by the following correspondence that an invitation in behalf of the Union people of Bangor has been extended to our distinguished fellow-citizen, Hon. Hannibal Hamlin, to address us on the political issues of the campaign, previous to the election, and that he has accepted. We have no doubt, and no one who knows Mr. Hamlin has any doubt, as to his opinions in the present crisis, or as to his readiness to express them upon all fitting and proper occasions. He is not of those who are willing to deny or conceal his principles for the sake of retaining office, nor does Andrew Johnson possess patronage enough to purchase his support for a policy which he conceives to be most perilous to the country. Mr. Hamlin will speak with no uncertain sound:

BANGOR, Aug. 25, 1866.

Hon. Hannibal Hamlin, Boston, Mass.

Dear Sir: The undersigned, deeming the present an important crisis in public affairs, take this occasion, in behalf of the Union men of Bangor and vicinity, to invite you to address us at some time previous to our coming State election, upon the great political issues of the day. The Union people of the Penobscot valley, who have been accustomed to hear your voice in so many conflicts for the supremacy of their cherished political principles, would be gratified to meet you again, and receive your encouragement and aid in maintaining the issues involved in our present canvass. We would be pleased to know at an early date whether your official duties at Boston will allow you to grant us this request.

We are, very respectfully,
Your obedient servants,
SAM'L F. HERSEY,
And others.

BOSTON, Aug. 28, 1866.

Gentlemen: I am in receipt of your favor of the 25th inst., requesting me to address the Union men of Bangor and vicinity, at some time previous to our State election.

Having no opinions of public affairs and the state of the country which I wish to conceal, I will cheerfully comply with your request. I will hereafter advise you of the time at which it will be convenient for me to do so.

Yours truly,
H. HAMLIN.

Gen. S. F. HERSEY, and others.

THE INDIAN TROUBLES. Gen. Sherman telegraphs from Laramie, Aug. 29, that the accounts of Indian troubles are much exaggerated. The telegraph is not interrupted, the mails travel regularly, and no party properly organized has sustained any loss. There are some small parties of Indians stealing horses when they can do so with safety to themselves.

What the Rebels Say.

The Providence Journal says: "It is impossible to mistake the tone of the southern press. It almost unanimously repudiates that portion of the Philadelphia platform which alone makes it acceptable to the north. The most influential papers of the south, with few exceptions, deny that the result of the war is a vindication of constitutional right. They affirm that the war was a patriotic one on their side, an aggressive one on ours; they utterly scout the idea that they will submit to taxation, to pay the debt contracted to overthrow them, while that contracted in their defence is repudiated; and they manifest, in all their discussions, the same temper and insist on the same doctrine that prevailed in 1860, after the election of Lincoln and Hamlin. Indeed, to such a degree has the old southern spirit of rebellion revived, under the new policy, that the President, who a little while ago, was thanked for his magnanimity, is now snubbed for presuming to exact any terms of the southern States, and insolently denounced for interfering with the pirate "Admiral" Semmes, and preventing him from the exercise of the office to which he was elected, by his admiring fellow citizens of Mobile. They demand the liberation of Jeff. Davis, and evidently expect to obtain it. They talk again about the superiority of southern civilization, and the greater excellence of the southern people, and some of them more than hint at the invalidity of the anti-slavery amendment to the constitution, submitted by a Congress in which eleven States were unrepresented, and forced upon the States by executive dictation. Such are the results, thus far, of taking into confidence and favor, rebels whose hands are not yet washed of the blood of union men.

Losses and Compensation.

Enquiries are frequently made whether the Union Republican party will lose by deserters to the "Bread and Butter Brigade." The Press says that the canvass which has been nearly completed through the State clearly indicates that the changes are unimportant, and that the loss is balanced an hundred fold by the true union men of the South who followed our regiments north and by our laws have become legal voters. Such men are not afflicted with Custom House or Postoffice on the brain. They do not desert their principles and friends for patronage. Let the black man vote everywhere. It will cancel rebel influence at the polls in Maine as well as in New Orleans.

FULLERTON RESIGNED. The Tribune's Washington despatch says: "Gen. Fullerton, the twin brother of Gen. Steedman, and the famous Inspector of Freedmen in the Southern States, tendered his resignation as an officer of the army to the Secretary of War. It has been accepted, to take effect September 10. 1866. Fullerton expected to be put at the head of the Freedmen's Bureau, but wasn't. He resigns, and goes West to finish the studying of those books.

Who Encourages Another Rebellion?

Let candid men READ AND PONDER WELL the following which we take from a rebel organ of position and influence—the Atlanta New Era—and see whither Andrew Johnson's "policy" is leading.

Says the rebel organ:

The speech of President Johnson as reported by the telegraph on Sunday morning, is an advance movement. Opposed as Mr. Johnson has ever been to class legislation and sectional hierarchy, he has never spared the ambitious and revolutionary leaders of that body which assumes to be the Congress of the United States. But this is the first instance in which he openly questioned the legality of its existence, or pointedly hinted that its proceedings are a nullity. The President evidently feels strengthened by the action of the Union Convention, and is now willing to risk everything before the people.— Under these circumstances, the Fall elections will be looked to by both parties with increased anxiety and solicitude.

If the assemblage which has been called, or which has assumed to be the Congress of the United States, be not a Constitutional Congress, it follows, as a matter of course, that all its acts are illegal and void, then after it shall have been so pronounced by the Supreme Court, the Chief Executive officer of the Government is bound to see that all oppression and tyranny inaugurated by this illegal assembly shall cease.

It is important, then, that some test case be made touching the constitutionality of the laws enacted by Congress since December last, in order that the people may know to what extent their consciences are bound by its statutes.

The controversy, then, between the Executive and legislative departments of the Government, has at length reached that point, which some of us foresaw in February last. It is, on the part of each, a contest for existence. Should the Radicals succeed before the people at the ensuing elections, nothing is more certain than that the President will be deposed. Should the Administration succeed, the Radical power, will be overthrown, its acts pronounced illegal, and the body itself liable to dispersion as an illegal and seditious assemblage. In either case, it is not safe to predict that the controversy will be settled without an appeal to arms.

The Army to be Johnsonized—Adherents of the President to be Preferred Before Tried Soldiers.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.

It seems to be the intention of the President to arrange the organization of the regular army, even in the interest of his policy. A few days ago, upon the earnest recommendations of Generals Thomas, Sherman and Grant, Mr. Johnson appointed Brig. Gen. Charles Howard, brother of Maj. Gen. Howard, major in one of the new cavalry regiments, and the appointment was duly announced. Brig. Gen. Howard enlisted as a private, and serving with distinction throughout the war, rose to his present grade, he has been three times severely wounded and his whole record is a brilliant one. A certain Capt. Merriam of a Maine regiment, entirely unknown at the War Office, except that his name is borne on its rolls, wrote a letter to Mr. Johnson, saying that he heartily endorsed his policy, and asking for Gen. Howard's place. The President at once wrote on the note, "Let Captain Merriam be appointed in place of Gen. Howard," and the General was thus summarily removed. Many of Mr. Johnson's own friends are indignant at this outrage.—[Sp. to Boston Advertiser.

The N. Y. Times assures us that it had no hand in garbling Gen. Sheridan's letter. Very well; now let it state who had. From whom did its correspondent receive that letter? It is addressed to Gen. Grant; but it was not garbled by him. The Times can tell the whole truth if it will; and it owes that reparation to the public. Will it make it?—[Tribune.

Gen. Butler's Speech.

We have already given some brief extracts from the scathing speech of Maj. Gen. Butler delivered at Gloucester, Mass., last week, and should be glad to publish the whole if space would permit, but must be content for the present with one more extract. He handles the President and his policy very much as he handled the venomous rebels at New Orleans—without gloves. He believes in plain talk, which shall lay before the people the precise points at issue. After a sharp review of the platform of the Philadelphia Convention, wherein he cites the feeling of the Rebels as expressed in their journals, to show its hypocrisy and falsehood, the General continued:

"And that is the way that these men who went to Philadelphia and sat silent felt, and as one paper said, they did not cheer because it would be said all the enthusiasm came from the South; they did not respond "Aye" because it would be said that the people of the South passed the vote, though the real reason was that not a man of them dared go home and say they helped pass this resolution. They call their rebellion a great and glorious cause lost for want of means; we call it a wicked rebellion crushed by force of arms. They speak of the glorious dead and clothe their graves with flowers; we speak of Rebels and traitors, killed in the worst cause that men ever fought for. That is the difference between us, and are they in a condition to be received back? Let us go together a moment. I have given you evidence of the Philadelphia Convention which was to teach us our political duty, and to show that the South was ready to fraternize, and I was grieved more than I would like to express, (because I have ever had kindly personal relations with the President of the United States,) when I heard of his saying to the committee—to Reverdy Johnson, a man who when I was in Baltimore stood on the fence for more than a month, not knowing which way to leap, until he found that we were considerably the strongest on Federal Hill, and our guns pointed towards his house,—I was grieved, I say, to hear the President say that a portion of Congress, not the whole Congress, were attempting to usurp power. I should like to have stood behind him and said, what are you thinking of? That is a portion of Congress only because elected by a portion of the States; but this Congress is elected by precisely the same persons that elected you—are you only a portion of a President? And if you say that this thing is to be tried over again and the rest of the States come into Congress, in order to set this matter right, and bring the disloyal States into Congress, hadn't you, being elected by only a portion of the people, better resign your place? And then if you get elected on that issue, I think you will be allowed to do pretty much as you please. He knows, and I know, and you know, that these eleven States would have hanged him so quick at the beginning of the war that he would not have had time to breathe a prayer. I have never had occasion to say aught against the motives which actuate the President, but I do say that there is no viler abuse heaped upon any man North or South than was heaped upon Andrew Johnson, and I used to glory in the fact that he and I trained in the same company, and dealt in the same epithets, and now that he has become that great and good man, as the South say, I feel quite encouraged for myself, that I may some time become quite a man. It only requires a little turning back upon my old friends of the North. We see by the tone of the papers that these people are not ready for reconstruction. There is a mass of overwhelming evidence.

The Southern man, whether arrived at the common age of man or not, knows that he can go to any part of the North and speak his sentiments freely, and I do not want any part of this country represented in Congress until you and I can go and argue the principles of free government without fear of the knife or pistol, or of being murdered by a mob. And when men ask me how long I would keep these men out, I say keep them out until the heavens melt with fervent heat—until they will allow free speech and free press throughout their land. And if it should not come in this generation, we will swear our sons to keep them out until they become fit for a republican form of government. I now remember a man who came to me among the very first at New Orleans and took me by the hand, and with tears in his eyes said: "I thank God you have come; I bless God that your flag waves over me again—the symbol of justice and protection of my country;" and yet I have seen that man murdered in cold blood by the Chief of Police, whom I had condemned to death for the murder of a Union man, and only refrained from hanging him because the act took place before my arrival and I doubted my authority to execute him. That murdered man was Dostie, the best and purest Union man that ever tread the soil of Louisiana, for he perilled his life when he had no hope, in defense of the flag. I speak with feeling, for he was one of my best and staunchest advisers, and aided me by all means in his power. As long as I had a command the flag sheltered him and every other man within my territory. And that that man should be murdered with that flag flying over him—not to him an emblem of power and protection—and we be told that these men are our brothers! [Applause.] The rattlesnake may be a brother of the copperhead, but not mine—not mine! And what was his offense? He undertook to assemble with the Convention and discuss their rights as we are assembled here to-night, a right guaranteed by the Constitution of the United States, and under the protection of the flag; and I should like to say to my old friend, Gen. Dix, you said "When any one attempts to pull down the United States flag shoot him on the spot;" but now whenever a man raises the American flag you seem to want some Thug to shoot him on the spot. And you, Gen. Dix, go to Philadelphia and talk about your brethren! They are no brethren of mine. Either their hearts or mine must change before I can give them the right hand of fellowship.

The Importance of our State Election.

In an article upon the approaching Maine election the Boston Traveller urges upon the Republicans of Maine the immense importance of casting a full vote. It says:

They occupy a most honorable position, and can decide far more than the result of their own election. They should take it for granted that the democratic vote will be large, and they should meet it by a corresponding gain on their own side, or more.— We have no doubt that, if every man in Maine were to vote on the 10th of September, there would be 25,000 Republican majority; and we believe that a majority approaching to that number in proportion to the whole vote, can be secured, through proper exertions, such as, according to appearances, the loyal people of the State are making. Such a majority would have no light effect abroad. It would carry as much dismay into the minds of democrats elsewhere as it would impart confidence to all patriotic citizens. It would petrify the President, and form a most wholesome dose for him to take on his return from that political pilgrimage which he is now making. It is for the people of Maine to inaugurate a peaceful, constitutional change in the government, by setting a noble example to their fellow citizens everywhere, an example which would find wide-spread imitation. The people of that State hold the future of their country in their hands,—under which condition of thing it is satisfactory to know—judging of the present by their past—that the country is safe, for better men never were entrusted with the power of deciding the fate of a nation. We expect to record the details of a great Union victory on the 11th of September, and we are confident that we shall not be disappointed.

TO THE LADIES.

THE CIRAGE FRANCAIS, or FRENCH DRESSING, is the most splendid article ever produced for the purpose for which it was designed. Ladies' and Children's Boots and Shoes that have become red or rusty, and rough by wearing, are restored to a perfect and permanent black, with as much lustre as when new, leaving the leather soft and pliable; and what is of great importance to the ladies, it will not remove off when wet, and soil the skirts.

Travelling Bags, Trunks, Carriage-Tops, and fine Harness, are made to look as good as new.

Ladies and Children can dress their own boots without soiling their hands. Try one bottle, and you will never be without a supply of it in the house.

At the Union Methodist church this a. m Parson Brownlow delivered a characteristic address The Parson is laboring under an attack of palsy. He said nothing could have induced him to attend the convention, in his present physical condition, but the deep and absorbing interest he felt in the cause of his country, and the fierce and terrible conflict now going on between the Executive and legislative departments of the Federal Government. If the President shall succeed, shall conquer in his purpose—all the Southern Unionists and colored loyalists will have to leave, and seek some other abode. He said: "So far as I am concerned, I have fled from the South for the last time, and sought shelter in the mountain gorges of Tennessee for the last time I will sooner expire on a lamp post under the capitol of Tennessee!"

"PEACE IN WESTERN LOUISIANA. A Union general residing in New York has just received a letter from an army friend at Shreveport, La, as follows:

"I have but a moment to write before the steamboat leaves. We have been under arms and in line for three nights past, and are in quite a state of excitement. De Soto parish (the worst in the State) has risen. Most of the planters have been whipping and shooting freedmen, and defying the military to arrest them. Major Thompson marched thirty miles into the parish on Tuesday night last, and arrested five planters. The people here armed and prepared themselves, and swore they would rescue these men. They are trying to get up a riot, and partly succeeded after the news of the New Orleans riot came; but we put them down quickly and quietly. They swear they will clean out the 8——d negro troops. We are only in hopes they will try it on. It looks like war again; they talk it strongly, and are holding secret meetings constantly. I pity the poor blacks; they suffer terribly. In Texas, only forty miles from here, they work and treat them exactly the same as in old slaver times."

A Washington despatch to the Boston Advertiser says there are now on file in the War Department official reports of atrocious outrages upon freedmen, endorsed in the handwriting and with the signature of Mr. Johnson, that "These reports must not be made public!"

AS A HAIR PREPARATION this stands without a rival—has proved itself by the thousands who have tested its virtues for the past three years,

By its invigorating properties promotes a luxuriant growth on Bald Heads, in all cases where such a result is possible; prevents the hair from falling off, eradicates dandruff, humors and all other impurities from the scalp; and as a Restorer and Dressing combined, it has no equal.

The great and increasing sales of this preparation attest the high value in which it is held, and the fact that its reputation has been established solely upon its own merit and worth—the trial of a single bottle will convince the most skeptical of its virtues

BROWN'S VERMIFUGE COMFITS,

Much sickness, undoubtedly, with children and adults, attributed to other causes, is occasioned by worms The "VERMIFUGE COMFITS," although effectual in destroying worms, can do no possible injury to the most delicate child — This valuable combination has been successfully used by physicians, and found to be safe and sure in eradicating worms, so hurtful to children.

CHILDREN HAVING WORMS require immediate attention, as neglect of the trouble often causes prolonged sickness

Ritchie's Liquid Compass!

THE Ritchie Compass which has been the standard Compass in the navy for upwards of four years, and also in extensive use in the merchant service, should be used on every class of vessels where a compass is to be depended on. It combines all the qualities of a perfect instrument. To extreme sensitiveness and perfect steadiness is added a strength and durability which prevents them from getting out of order like other compasses The reason for this is apparent to any one upon examination. A single trial of the compass has always resulted in its adoption and the rejection of every other kind

Democratic Mass Meeting.

You've heard the old story, no doubt, in your childhood,
Of the fly on the wheel grown so wondrously big
In his own estimation—that whirled round the coach wheel,
He thought the whole world revolved round him instead;
The force of the story, you'll quickly perceive, sirs,
By taking the time to step in, now and then,
To those mammoth assemblies, consisting of eight sirs,
Those Democrat mass meetings, minus the M.

Of Andy you'll hear—Knight of needles and goose, sirs—
This last has no personal allusion to those
Who flock round his standard, declaring the country
Is ruined, unless for them, every vote goes.
You'll there see the big men, and sometimes the little,
Lay round them on all sides, with copperhead vim;
Denouncing all parties who do not endorse, sirs,
"My Policy" mass meetings, minus the M.

Shade of Judas Iscarriot, emerge from thy darkness!
Shake the dust from thy robes, and come forth Benedict;
The meeting's congenial; Wood, Davis, and Andy;
You'll ne'er find again such an "excellent fit;"
For he, who is master of scissors and needle
Surely cannot fail now, though a horrible din
Is filling his ears from an indignant people,
Crying "shame" on those mass meetings, minus the M.

O, have a care Andy, forget not the fate, sir,
Of Judas Iscarriot and Benedict A.,
No doubt you'll have justice, your "Policy" with you,
At least in my heart, sir, I hope that you may.
You may summon your "rebs," from the north and the south, sir,
You'll find yourself minus of more than the M.

Ye dupes of a party, whose leaders are traitors,
There's still time enough to escape from the shame,
By giving your votes for men loyal and true, sirs,
And leaving men Democrat only in name.
Oh! take the advice of a friend who still loves ye,
Fly from rebels and traitors, so falsely called men
And peril no longer, your pockets and honor,
In those Copperhead mass meetings, minus the M.

Mrs. Geo. Wirt.

Aug. 31st, 1866.

His Wits About Him.

(Concluded.)

It was in the summer of the year which saw me pass my twentieth birthday we met at Niagara Falls. He was there with his cousin, my dear friend Belle Harrison, and I with my sister and mother.

On a certain day we were all taking a walk on Goat Island, when mother dropped her parasol, and it slid down the bank some fifteen or twenty feet, and out of reach. Mr. Harrison descended the bank after it, but though he used proper caution, his foot slipping on the treacherous soil, as he was returning, and he slid rapidly down to the very verge of the precipice. I expected nothing else than to see him go over, and be dashed to pieces on the rocks a hundred feet below; but though the three other ladies screamed loudly I did not. You see I was pretty thoroughly drilled at this time. However, as Mr. Harrison neared the edge of the precipice, he threw out his right hand—still holding the parasol with his left—and seized the upturned roots of a tree which leaned out over the chasm. The tree shook violently under the sudden shock, and the roots began to tear themselves out of the thin soil slowly and steadily, under the influence of this superadded weight. In a few minutes more it would give way and then he would be killed. I knew my face was pale, and I was terribly frightened, but I leaned forward and spoke to him:

'Tell me what to do.'

'Take all the ladies' shawls, skirts, and other articles of dress that you can spare, and which are strong, cut them in wide long strips, tie them firmly together, and make a rope.'

I obeyed as calmly as I knew he would have done, but none the less expeditiously on that account, be very sure. He continued speaking to me at intervals while I was doing his bidding, and he spoke as deliberately as if he stood in safety by my side.

'Your calmness is quite charming, Miss Monroe,' said he, 'Be sure and make the knots tight. I judge that this tree may be relied on with perfect confidence for ten or fifteen minutes yet. * * Your rope is long enough now, I think. Tie a stone to it and let it down to me. * * That's it. All right now. Do nothing but hold fast and stand still, ladies, and I will come up to you.'

He drew himself up, hand over hand, with extreme caution, and was saved! My mother's parasol was restored to her with a courtly bow, and he brushed the dust from his clothes and walked away with us. I walked by his side, but he made no reference to the peril just passed.

That evening, however, as we sat on the piazza of our hotel, where it overlooks the river, he said:

'We are alone now, Miss Monroe, and I can thank you for saving my life, without offence to the other ladies.'

It was too dark out there for him to see the blush of delight that went over my face at these words. How much they meant to me!

'I knew I was as good as saved,' said he, 'when I saw you standing with tightly clasped hands and your under lip pressed by your shining teeth, while Belle and the other ladies were trying to drown the roar of Niagara with their shrieks. I never saw one of your sex before who had the control over herself which you manifested to-day. If I had seen such an exhibition anywhere it would naturally have awakened my admiration; but when it happened to be an exhibition in which my own life or death was concerned, you may imagine my feelings.'

The tone in which he uttered these words was so tender and true—it said so plainly that he would gladly devote all his future life to me! But, though tone and manner said this, his words did not say it, and I knew the reason. He believed me already betrothed.

William Willis was the son of a New York merchant who had been a schoolmate with my father. It was my father's wish that we should be married. I loved my father, and was anxious to be pleased with his friend's son. Young Willis had been a frequent guest with us, and many considered us already betrothed. He was an agreeable companion in the parlor—a good dancer, and all that, but I cared more for one look of Joseph Harrison's earnest, honest gray eyes than I did for William Willis's whole composition.

According to a previous appointment Mr. Willis came to the falls during our stay. He arrived on the evening of the day that witnessed Mr. Harrison's escape from death; he came out on the piazza where we sat, that evening; and we shook hands. The gentlemen were slightly acquainted, but it was plain Mr. Harrison did not like Mr. Willis much; and with a playful 'Ich muss weggehen,' to me, he rose and went into the ballroom, politely offering his seat to Mr. Willis.

Several days passed. While actually in the position as a rival towards Mr. Willis Mr. Harrison by no means permitted himself to act as if he were such. He seemed, however, to be studying us—trying to form a conclusion as to the probable extent of our relations matrimonyward. Oh, it did seem to me as if he might, at times, do it sooner than he was—plainly put a few questions to me on the subject! I would quickly have assured him how little Mr. Willis was to me.

At last, I had nearly made up my mind to a desperate thing: nothing else than to seek his intercession of his cousin, my friend Belle. I would tell her how much I loved Mr. Harrison, and beg her to inform him in some sly feminine way, that I should never marry Mr. Willis, and that we were not engaged. However, I neglected to do this just one day too long.

It was on Monday—the last day of our intended stay at the falls. Mr. Willis invited me to ride. I had no courteous refusal at hand, and I consented to go with him. There was a New York friend of ours staying at the falls, who had with him a favorite horse—a fiery, and handsome animal—and Mr. Willis had repeatedly invited me to ride behind him. I could put off the ride no longer, of course.

I did not much like the vicious manner in which the horse, at starting, laid back his ears and bounded away; but I said nothing. We had not been riding many minutes ere the animal chose to take fright at the flapping of newly-washed clothing in the door-yard of a house near the river bank; and taking the bit in his teeth he ran away. Our road lay along the bank—safe enough, certainly, for a ride with a horse under control; but decidedly not the best place for a runaway, because there was a spot not over half a mile distant, where the chances were frightfully great that we should be thrown over the precipice and be killed. At the rate we were now going we should reach the place very soon. Mr Willis looking ahead, comprehended the danger, and his face blanched.

'Good God!' he cried, 'its death!'

With that he threw up the reins, and jumped out of the buggy, striking a rock, and breaking his collar bone—as I found out afterwards.

As for me, I kept my seat. If it should become necessary for me to jump then I would jump: but I was determined not to take that venture till it was imperatively demanded, by the imminency of the danger at hand. So long as there was a possibility that the horse's progress might be arrested, I held to that hope; because when a horse is running furiously down a smooth road, there is no choice between jumping spots, till the crisis is at hand.

While I sat clinging firmly to the seat, and looking out sharply ahead, for the dangerous place must now be drawing near, a man—it was Mr. Harrison—sprung with astonishing agility at the horse's head, from among some trees at the roadside, caught the bit, jerked it back, and out of the horse's lips, so that blood flowed, so energetic was the action. There was no resisting the iron will, backed by the iron nerve. The runaway came to a stop. Mr. Harrison drew him to the side of the road and examined the harness and carriage carefully.

'Nothing broken,' said he. 'A very narrow escape, Miss Monroe. I saw you coming and had just time to get my wits in order. There, don't thank me; I didn't know it was you, and should have done the same for any one else.'

'But you are hurt,' said I, noticing that he limped.

'Yes; the horse trod on my foot.'

'Oh, how unfortunate! Shall I get out?'

'No,' said he, 'that is, it is unnecessary that you should. Sit still and get rested.—He will run no more to-day, I promise you.'

He came around and placed his lamed foot carelessly on a wheel of the buggy, and spoke in his usual calm tone:

'When a horse has had a fine lively run like that he is inclined to be quiet for the rest of the day. You can drive him back in perfect safety. But I did not know you were fond of taking drives all alone by yourself, Miss Monroe.'

'I was not riding alone' said I, 'my driver jumped out.'

'And left you?' said he, astonished.

'Yes.'

'He ought to be horsewhipped! May I ask the coward's name?'

'His name,' said I, 'is William Willis.'

Mr Harrison started, amazed.

'Willis! I beg your pardon, Miss Monroe.' This very coldly. 'I should not have spoken in those terms if I had known your companion was your——' He stopped and bit his lip.

'My fiance, you would say,' I made quick response. 'But he is not my fiance, Mr. Harrison. I would sooner marry a woman than such a coward.'

I spoke with some heat, and he looked up at my excited face with his dry smile.

'Will you marry me, Miss Monroe?'

'Yes,' said I.

And I did.

It was a queer place for a proposal, was it not? But my husband is not like other men. He always has his wits about him.

Here I had finished, but my husband in reading what I had written made this comment: 'Which few men do when they pop the question, my dear nicht wahr!'

THE KIDNEYS.

The kidneys are two in number, situated at the upper part of the loin, surrounded by fat and consisting of three parts, viz.: The Anterior, the Interior, and the Exterior.

The anterior absorbs. Interior consists of tissues or veins, which serve as a deposit for the urine and convey it to the exterior. The exterior is a conductor also, terminating in a single tube and called the Ureter. The ureters are connected with the bladder.

The bladder is composed of various coverings or tissues, divided into parts, viz.: the Upper, Lower, the Nervous, and the Mucous. The upper expels, the lower retains. Many have a desire to urinate without the ability, others urinate without the ability to retain. This frequently occurs in children. To cure these affections we must bring into action the muscles, which are engaged in their various functions. If they are neglected, Gravel or Dropsy may ensue.

The reader must also be made aware, that however slight may be the attack, it is sure to affect his bodily health and mental powers; as our flesh and blood are supported from these sources.

GOUT, OR RHEUMATISM.

Pain occurring in the loins is indicative of the above disease. They occur in persons disposed to acid stomach and chalky concretions.

THE GRAVEL.

The gravel ensues from neglect or improper treatment of the kidneys. These organs being weak, the water is not expelled from the bladder, but allowed to remain; it becomes feverish and sediment forms. It is from this deposit that the stone is formed, gravel ensues.

DROPSY.

Is a collection of water in some parts of the body, and bears different names, according to the parts affected, viz.: when generally diffused over the body, it is called Anasarca: when of the abdomen, Ascites: when of the chest, Hydrothorax.

TREATMENT.

Helmbold's highly concentrated compound Extract Buchu is decidedly one of the best remedies for diseases of the bladder, kidney, gravel, dropsical swellings, rheumatism, and gouty affections. Under this head we have arranged Dysuria, or difficulty and pain in passing water, scanty secretion or small and frequent discharges of water, Strangury or stopping of water, Hematuria or bloody urine, Gout and Rheumatism of the kidneys, without any change in quantity, but increase of color or dark water. It was always highly recommended by the late Dr. Physick, in these affections.

This medicine increases the power of digestion and excites the absorbents into healthy exercise, by which the watery or calcareous depositions and all unnatural enlargements, as well as pain and inflammation, are reduced, and is taken by

MEN, WOMEN, AND CHILDREN.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., February 25, 1857.

H. T. HELMBOLD, Druggist.

Dear Sir: I have been a sufferer, for upwards of twenty years, with gravel, bladder, and kidney affections, during which time I have used various medicinal preparations, and been under the treatment of the most eminent physicians, experiencing but little relief.

Having seen your preparations extensively advertised, I consulted with my family physician in regard to using your Extract Buchu.

I did this because I had used all kinds of advertised remedies, and had found them worthless, and some quite injurious; in fact, I despaired of ever getting well, and determined to use no remedies hereafter unless I knew of the ingredients. It was this that prompted me to use your remedy. As you advertised that it was composed of buchu, cubebs, and juniper berries; it occurred to me and my physician as an excellent combination, and, with his advice, after an examination of the article, and consulting again with the druggist, I concluded to try it. I commenced its use about eight months ago, at which time I was confined to my room. From the first bottle I was astonished and gratified at the beneficial effect, and after using it three weeks was able to walk out. I felt much like writing you a full statement of my case at that time, but thought my improvement might only be temporary, and therefore concluded to defer and see if it would effect a perfect cure, knowing then it would be of greater value to you are more satisfactory to me.

I am now able to report that a cure is effected after using the remedy for five months.

I have not used any now for three months, and feel as good and well as I ever did.

Your Buchu being devoid of any unpleasant taste and odor, a nice tonic and invigorator of the system, I do not mean to be without it whenever occasion may require its use in such affections.

DR. CRAGO:

Dear Sir:—I wish to inform you that I have been under the treatment of some of our best physicians for nearly two years, without receiving any benefit. I had lost all confidence, and I indulged in but little hope of a cure from any source. My disease was Dropsy, and my physicians told me that there was no cure for me. I was tapped some fifty times, and at the different operations about 1200 pounds of water was removed.

I am happy to inform you that I have been completely restored to health by the use of Constitution Water.

I make this statement hoping it may reach those persons who may be similarly afflicted.

Respectfully,

MRS. MARGILL C. LEVANWAY.

IN LEUCORRHŒA, OR PAINFUL MENSTRUATION, AND MENORRHAGIA, OR PROFUSE FLOWING.

Both diseases arising from a faulty secretion of the menstrual fluid—in one case being too little and accompanied by severe pain, and the other a too profuse secretion, which will be speedily cured by the Constitution Water.

That disease known as FALLING OF THE WOMB, which is the result of a relaxation of the ligaments of that organ, and is known by a sense of heaviness and dragging pains in the back and sides and sometimes accompanied by sharp, lancinating or shooting pains through the parts, will, in all cases, be removed by the medicine.

There is another class of symptoms arising from IRRITATION OF THE WOMB, which physicians call Nervousness, which word covers up much ignorance, and in nine cases out of ten the doctor does not really know whether the symptoms are the disease, or the disease the symptoms. We can only enumerate them here. I speak more particularly of Cold Feet, Palpitation of the Heart, Impaired Memory, Wakefulness, Flashes of Heat, Languor, Lassitude, and Dimness of Vision.

READ! READ!! READ!!!

DANVILLE, Pa., June, 1862.—Dr. William H. Gregg—Dear Sir:—In February, 1861, I was afflicted with sugar diabetes, and for five months I passed more than two gallons of water in twenty-four hours. I was obliged to get up as often as ten or twelve times during the night, and in five months I lost about fifty pounds in weight. During the month of July, 1861, I procured two bottles of Constitution Water, and in two days after using it I experienced relief, and after taking two bottles I was entirely cured soon after regaining my usual good health.

Yours truly, J. V. L. DE WITT.

BOSTON CORNERS, N. Y., Dec. 27, 1861.—Wm. H. Gregg & Co.—Gents:—I freely give you liberty to make use of the following certificate of the value of the Constitution Water, which I can recommend in the highest manner:—My wife was attacked with pain in the shoulders, whole length of the back, and in her limbs, with palpitation of the heart and irritation of the bladder. I called a physician, who attended her about three months, when he left her worse than he found her. I then employed one of the best physicians I could find, who attended her for about nine months, and while she was under his care she did not suffer quite as much pain. He finally gave her up, and said "her case was incurable. For," said he, "she has such a combination of complaints that medicine given for one operates against some other of her difficulties." About this time she commenced to use the Constitution Water and to our utter astonishment, almost the first dose seemed to have the desired effect, and she kept on improving rapidly under its treatment, and now superintends entirely her domestic affairs. She has not taken any of the Constitution Water for about four weeks, and we are happy to say that it has produced a permanent cure.

WM. M. VAN BEUSCHOTEN.

WEATHERSFIELD, Conn., March 2, 1863.—Dr. W. H. Gregg.—Dear Sir:—Having seen your advertisement of "Constitution Water," recommended for Inflammation of the Kidneys and Irritation of the Bladder, having suffered for the past three years, and tried the skill of a number of physicians with only temporary relief, I was induced to try your medicine. I procured one bottle of your agents at Hartford, Messrs. Lee, Sisson & Co., and when I had used half of it, to my surprise, I found a great change in my health. I have used two bottles of it and am where I never expected to be in my life, well, and in good spirits. I cannot express my gratitude for it; I feel that it is all and more than you recommended it to be. May the blessing of God ever attend you in your labors of love.

Yours truly, LEONARD S. BIGLOW.
